English Proficiency

RE: Adama Akinta Susso

Adama Akinta Susso was enrolled in Charles Jow Memorial Academy in September 2020 and completed in May/June 2023.

In The Gambia, the medium of instruction in all schools is English. All subjects are taught in English.

Students who went through this system are subjected to rigorous exercises in both oral and written English. At the end of every term, students are also subjected to a standard internal examination as a pre-requisite for promotion to the upper class.

At the end of Grade 12, students sit to an external examination conducted by The West African Examinations Council, a legally constituted and recognised examining body in Anglo-phone West Africa.

The syllabus for the West African Examinations Council is tailored in a way that enhances proficiency in both spoken and written English. In this regard, such students do not need to be subjected to any test of English as a requirement to pursue further education in any institution where English is used as a medium of instruction.

Adama Akinta Susso was able to read and understand English quite well. She can express and write good essays. She sometimes takes part in class discussions as well as other aspects of the school.
